

MASTERY in Teamwork

Collaboration Solutions

Mastery in Teamwork: Collaboration Solutions

The nature of work is changing rapidly. The recent improvements in technology, various trends and the necessity of communication "anytime, anywhere" are causing a profound transition in the way that people interact with each other and do business. Collaboration provides a new level of freedom and flexibility in the way people connect, communicate, and participate in the business.

By connecting distributed team members across organizations and time zones, the collaboration technology enables companies to reduce and even avoid costs, accelerate time to market, and transform entire industries.

PROBIL, the technology partner of many corporations offers collaboration solutions to organizations to improve interactions, encourage innovation, and make better decisions faster by enabling people to connect, communicate, and collaborate. The advantages of collaboration are:

- Reduce travel, infrastructure, energy, and office-space costs
- Increase employee productivity
- Provide employees access to the information and insights they need to do their jobs
- Extend the reach of knowledge towards workers and experts for supporting each other, and the uninformed workers
- Enable people to connect in faster and richer ways

PROBIL offers one of the most comprehensive portfolios of collaboration solutions in the industry, with the help of its business partner, Cisco and Microsoft. You can choose the solutions that match your business objectives in any order.

The architecture on which the solutions are being build allows the investment in a certain field to create a basis for building future needs. Our open and interoperable approach allows you to integrate existing and new collaboration technologies while flexible deployment options offer a variety of choices depending on your needs.

From IP communications to mobility, customer care, web conferencing, messaging, enterprise social software and interoperable telepresence experiences, you can use network-based and integrated collaboration solutions together which are based on open standards. These solutions help you promote business growth, innovation and productivity. They are also crucial in accelerating team performance, protecting investments, and simplifying the process of finding the right people and information for you.

As a Gold Certificated Partner of Cisco and Microsoft, PROBIL is ready to help you deliver the new collaboration experience and harness the power of participation in your own business.

References: Industry-leading companies in Telecom, Finance and General Sector and Public Sector

